

Unlawful use of DPT Software Solutions – ACME INC – Notice

Dear Sirs,

as you might know, DPT develops CAD/PLM software (TDEngineering, TDProfessional, TTeam, etc.) which is also regularly licensed and in use by your Company.

It has come to DPT's attention that your company – besides those regular licenses - may be using also unlicensed copies of DPT's software products (or that at least they have been used for a long period in the last 15 months, which so far is the duration of our investigations).

DPT's source of the information, while confidential, is both reliable and accurate. Before sending this message, we had the opportunity to detect several and long-lasting infringements by your Company.

The intellectual property rights in respect of such software are held by DPT and such software is protected by copyright and other related laws and regulations in Europe and Worldwide. DPT appreciates that you may be personally unaware of these violations; however, your Company is responsible for such an unlawful use. So please contact urgently our compliance department at pwdrelease@dptcorporate.com, so that we can proceed to resolve this matter. On request, they can also provide details about the unlawful use we have detected.

Sincerely,

Massimo Signani
CEO DPT
